Welcoming Remarks from the Conference Chair
Canadian Economics Association Meetings
Montreal, May 2025:

It is my pleasure to welcome you to the 59th annual meetings of the Canadian Economics Association (CEA) at the Université du Québec à Montréal (UQAM). This gathering provides an invaluable opportunity for economists, policymakers, and students to engage in meaningful discussions on the pressing economic challenges of our time. Montreal, a city rich in history, culture and diversity, offers an inspiring setting for our deliberations.

This year's conference occurs at a pivotal moment for Canada's economy. As we continue to navigate post-pandemic recovery, we are also grappling with inflationary pressures, labour market shifts, and fiscal sustainability. Housing affordability, productivity growth, the impacts of artificial intelligence and climate policy also remain central to economic discourse. In addition, the recent imposition of new tariffs by the United States has introduced extreme trade uncertainty, posing a further threat to the global economy. In the face of these challenges, sound economic analysis is needed to guide the response of policymakers.

The 2025 CEA Meetings showcase an exceptional program featuring over 1000 presentations, cutting-edge research and thought-provoking discussions. Our keynote speakers will offer insights into contemporary economic challenges, while panel sessions will explore a broad range of topics, including labour market dynamics, macroeconomic policy, trade, inequality, and environmental economics. We are also excited to highlight emerging scholars, including student poster sessions and networking events.

During these meetings, I hope you will engage in dialogue, challenge assumptions, and foster collaborations that will advance economic knowledge and policy. The strengths of our profession are rigorous theoretical and empirical analysis as well as the translation of this research into real-world impact. Equally important is our commitment to fostering a diverse and inclusive discipline, ensuring that voices from all backgrounds contribute to shaping economic thought and policy. The CEA's commitment to diversity includes the continuation of Embrace Day, with a variety of activities scheduled for Thursday May 29th.

These meetings have benefited from significant financial support, and I thank the Association's many sponsors, including several individual departments and the organizations listed in this program. I am particularly grateful to Analysis Group and the Bank of Canada, which have both been generous long-term supporters.

Although I am Conference Chair, others did most of the work. I am extremely grateful to the local organizers, Marie Connolly and Charles Séguin of the economics department at UQAM, for their hard work in managing all the decisions involved with the conference site: room bookings, reception venues, sponsorships, etc. Without their smart choices and tireless efforts, these meetings would not have been possible.

Paula Emery and Denise Abella handled all the detailed work involved in the submissions process, the communication of decisions, registrations, and scheduling of sessions. I am also grateful to all the study group organizers and evaluators for their hard work and timely efforts in selecting papers and forming sessions. Moreover, I thank our student volunteers at UQAM for helping the meetings to run smoothly.

In her role as Executive Officer for the CEA, Paula Emery has been a reliable and valuable source of advice and support for every decision I have had to make and has kept the entire process on track over the last year. We are very lucky to have her in this role.

Finally, I also thank each of you — our participants — for your contributions to this year's conference and to the broader field of economics. Welcome to the CEA 2025 Meetings. I look forward to an engaging and inspiring event.

Sincerely,

Huw Lloyd-Ellis
Conference Chair, CEA 2025

Mot de bienvenue du président du congrès
Congrès de l'Association canadienne d'économique
Montréal, mai 2025 :

Bienvenue au 59e Congrès annuel de l'Association canadienne d'économique (ACE) à l'Université du Québec à Montréal (UQAM). Cet événement représente une occasion inestimable pour les économistes, les décideurs politiques et les étudiants d'engager des discussions constructives sur les enjeux économiques pressants de notre époque. Montréal, ville riche en histoire, en culture et en diversité, offre un cadre inspirant pour nos réflexions.

Cette année, la réunion se tient à un moment charnière pour l'économie canadienne. En cette période de reprise post-pandémie, nous faisons également face à des pressions inflationnistes, à des changements sur le marché du travail et à des enjeux en matière de viabilité budgétaire. L'accessibilité au logement, la croissance de la productivité, les répercussions de l'intelligence artificielle et les politiques climatiques sont également au cœur du discours économique. De plus, l'imposition récente de nouveaux tarifs douaniers par les États-Unis a introduit une incertitude commerciale extrême, ce qui constitue une menace supplémentaire pour l'économie mondiale. Face à ces défis, une analyse économique solide est nécessaire pour orienter la réponse des décideurs politiques.

Le Congrès de l'ACE 2025 propose plus de 1 000 présentations, des recherches de pointe et des discussions stimulantes. Nos conférenciers de marque donneront un aperçu des enjeux économiques contemporains, tandis que les tables rondes aborderont un large éventail de sujets, notamment la dynamique du marché du travail, les politiques macroéconomiques, le commerce, les inégalités et l'économie environnementale. Nous sommes également ravis de faire connaître de nouveaux chercheurs au moyen de présentation d'affiches par les étudiants et d'activités de réseautage.

J'espère que vous profiterez du congrès pour engager le dialogue, remettre en question des hypothèses et établir des collaborations qui feront progresser les connaissances et les politiques économiques. L'analyse théorique et empirique rigoureuse ainsi que l'application concrète des résultats de cette recherche font partie des forces de notre profession. Notre engagement à favoriser une discipline diversifiée et inclusive est tout aussi important : nous veillons à ce que des gens de tous les horizons puissent façonner la pensée et les politiques économiques. Pour assurer cette diversité, l'ACE tiendra une nouvelle édition de la Journée de l'inclusion, qui proposera une foule d'activités le jeudi 29 mai.

Le congrès a bénéficié d'un soutien financier important, et je remercie les nombreux commanditaires de l'Association, dont plusieurs départements ainsi que les organisations mentionnées dans ce programme. Je tiens particulièrement à remercier le Groupe d'analyse et la Banque du Canada pour leur appui à long terme.

Bien que je sois le président du congrès, d'autres ont accompli la majeure partie du travail. Je suis extrêmement reconnaissant envers les organisateurs locaux, Marie Connolly et Charles Séguin du Département des sciences économiques de l'UQAM, pour leur travail acharné dans la gestion de toutes les décisions relatives au site du congrès : réservations de salles, lieux de réception, commandites, etc. Sans leurs choix judicieux et leurs efforts inlassables, ce congrès n'aurait pas été possible.

Paula Emery et Denise Abella se sont occupées de tous les détails concernant le processus de soumission, la communication des décisions, les inscriptions et la programmation des séances. Je remercie également tous les organisateurs des groupes d'étude et les évaluateurs pour leur dur labeur et leur rapidité dans la sélection des articles et la création des séances. Je tiens aussi à remercier les étudiants bénévoles de l'UQAM pour leur contribution au bon déroulement du congrès.

En tant que cadre de direction de l'ACE, Paula Emery a été une source fiable et précieuse de conseils et de soutien pour chaque décision que j'ai eu à prendre; au cours de la dernière année, elle a maintenu l'ensemble du processus sur la bonne voie. Nous avons beaucoup de chance de l'avoir dans ce rôle.

Enfin, je remercie chacun d'entre vous, nos participants, pour votre contribution au congrès de cette année et au secteur de l'économie en général. Bienvenue au Congrès de l'ACE 2025 ! Je souhaite à tous un événement engageant et inspirant.

Cordialement,

Huw Lloyd-Ellis
Président du Congrès de l'ACE 2025

Welcome Message from the Rector of UQAM:

Dear Fellow economists,

It is a real pleasure for me to welcome you at the University of Quebec in Montreal (UQAM) for the 59th meeting of the Canadian Economics Association. Over 59 years, our discipline has rapidly evolved. Advances in econometrics and the modeling of heterogeneous and dynamic economies have significantly improved our ability to predict and measure the impact of public policies. Today, we can assert with infinitesimal doubt that one policy outperforms another in terms of the welfare of a given population. Economists have a substantial role to play in achieving societal well-being.

Constantly accelerating technological advances have allowed us to refine our tools even further. Artificial intelligence is already contributing to pushing these tools to new horizons.

These technological advances have also profoundly transformed society, making all published information easily accessible. The 21st century comes closest to being a knowledge society. Paradoxically, however, this knowledge society is not inherently knowledgeable. The overabundance of information underscores the importance of researchers in distinguishing facts from fiction for the public.

Disinformation is a weapon capable of inducing major social and societal changes in preferences, values, and political choices. Democracy itself is threatened by disinformation. At a time when some parliaments, in the United States and Hungary for instance, refuse to fulfill their roles, when courts face political pressures, and when the press becomes increasingly less independent, the only credible counter-power lies with you and the universities. Dear colleagues, make good use of it. Never hesitate to offer your expert insight in public debates. The sustainability of our free, democratic, and prosperous society depends on it.

Wishing you all an excellent conference!

Sincerely,

The Rector,
Stéphane Pallage

Message de bienvenue du recteur de l'UQAM :

Chères et chers collègues économistes,

C'est pour moi un grand plaisir de vous accueillir à l'Université du Québec à Montréal (UQAM) pour le 59e congrès de l'Association canadienne d'économique.

En 59 ans, notre science a évolué rapidement. Les progrès en économétrie et en modélisation d'économies hétérogènes et dynamiques ont permis des avancées considérables dans nos capacités de prédiction et de mesures de l'impact de politiques publiques. Nous sommes aujourd'hui capables d'affirmer avec un doute infinitésimal qu'une politique domine une autre pour le bien-être d'une population donnée. Les économistes ont un rôle à jouer considérable dans l'atteinte du bien-être social.

Les progrès technologiques en accélération constante ont permis de raffiner toujours davantage nos outils. L'intelligence artificielle contribue déjà à les amener plus loin.

Ces progrès technologiques ont aussi fait évoluer la société d'une façon spectaculaire, rendant facilement accessible toute information jamais publiée. Le 21<sup>e</sup> siècle est celui qui se rapproche le plus d'une société de la connaissance. Paradoxalement, cette société de la connaissance n'est pas pour autant connaisseuse. La surabondance d'information renforce l'importance des chercheurs pour établir aux yeux du grand public ce qui est un fait et ce qui ne l'est pas.

La désinformation est une arme qui a le potentiel d'opérer des changements sociaux et sociétaux majeurs au niveau des préférences, des valeurs, des choix politiques. La démocratie elle-même est menacée par cette désinformation. À l'heure où certains parlements, aux États-Unis et en Hongrie par exemple, refusent de jouer leur rôle, à l'heure où les tribunaux subissent les pressions politiques, à l'heure où la presse est de moins en moins indépendante, le seul contre-pouvoir crédible, c'est vous et les universités qui le détenez. Chères et chers collègues, faites-en bon usage. Ne rechignez jamais à offrir votre éclairage expert au débat public. Il en va de la pérennité de notre société libre, démocratique et prospère.

Bonne conférence à toutes et tous !

Mes amitiés,

Le recteur,
Stéphane Pallage

Welcome Message from the CAES President:

Welcome to the 2025 Joint Annual Meeting of the CAES and CEA, hosted by the Department of Economics at the University of Quebec in Montréal (UQAM)! We are thrilled to hold this year's Annual Meeting jointly with the CEA, creating a unique opportunity for networking and engagement.

The in-person program is filled with exciting events. On May 29, the CEA will host its Embrace Day events. On May 30, CAES will feature three organized symposia: one on agri-food trade, another on farm management, and a third introducing new faces in our Society. We are also pleased to continue the Graduate Student Paper Competition this year. In addition, regular paper sessions will cover a variety of relevant topics, including land use, risk, gender, supply chain resilience, and best management practices.

Our plenary session on May 30 at 4:00 p.m. will feature two distinguished speakers: Brady Deaton from the University of Guelph, delivering the Fellow's Address, and Marc Bellemare from the University of Minnesota, presenting the Keynote Address.

The CEA evening receptions on May 30 and 31 offer excellent opportunities to connect with economists from a wide range of fields and from around the world.

On May 31, we host three more organized symposia: advances in agricultural economics, the Focus on Fellows session on tariffs, Trump, and its impacts on the agri-food sector, organized by Alfons Weersink, and a session on Canada's agri-food supply chain. In addition, paper sessions will cover key themes such as food security, sustainability, and big data.

Please mark your calendar for the plenary session on May 31 at 10:30 a.m. This session will feature the Presidential Address by Warren Goodlet (AAFC), followed by the Annual Business Meeting and the Awards Ceremony, where we will celebrate the outstanding achievements of our members.

One week prior to the in-person events, we invite you to join us for Online Day on May 23, featuring three engaging virtual sessions on climate change, agricultural productivity, and policy.

My sincere thanks to the executive and committee members, organizers/chairs, moderators, judges, reviewers, local organizers, and the dedicated staff of both CAES and CEA, whose time and commitment made this meeting possible.

Located in the heart of downtown Montréal, the UQAM campus provides a vibrant setting for the meeting. We also hope you enjoy the city's rich cultural offerings and local attractions during your visit. Thank you again for your participation and engagement.

Best wishes,

Yu Na Lee, University of Guelph
President, Canadian Agricultural Economics Society (CAES)

Message de bienvenue de Yu Na Lee, présidente de la SCAE :

Bienvenue au congrès annuel conjoint 2025 de la SCAE et de l'ACE, organisé par le Département des sciences économiques de l'Université du Québec à Montréal (UQAM) ! Nous sommes ravis de tenir le congrès de cette année conjointement avec l'ACE pour créer une occasion unique de réseautage et de participation.

Le programme en personne propose une foule d'activités passionnantes. La Journée de l'inclusion de l'ACE se tiendra le 29 mai. Le 30 mai, la SCAE proposera trois colloques : le premier portera sur le commerce agroalimentaire, le deuxième, sur la gestion des exploitations agricoles et le troisième, sur les nouveaux visages de la Société. Par ailleurs, c'est avec grand plaisir que nous tiendrons encore une fois le concours d'articles des étudiants des cycles supérieurs. En outre, des présentations traditionnelles couvriront une variété de sujets pertinents, comme l'utilisation des terres, les risques, le genre, la résilience de la chaîne d'approvisionnement et les pratiques de gestion exemplaires.

Notre séance plénière, qui se tiendra le 30 mai à 16 h, accueillera deux conférenciers de renom : Brady Deaton, de l'Université de Guelph, prononcera le discours du boursier, et Marc Bellemare, de l'Université du Minnesota, prononcera le discours principal.

Les réceptions de l'ACE, qui auront lieu les 30 et 31 mai, offrent une excellente occasion de rencontrer des économistes du monde entier et de domaines très variés.

Le 31 mai, nous tiendrons trois autres colloques : une séance sur les progrès de l'agroéconomie, une séance « Pleins feux sur les boursiers » sur les tarifs douaniers de Trump et leurs répercussions sur le secteur agroalimentaire, organisée par Alfons Weersink, et une séance sur la chaîne d'approvisionnement agroalimentaire du Canada. De plus, des présentations couvriront des thèmes clés, comme la sécurité alimentaire, la durabilité et les mégadonnées.

À noter que la séance plénière aura lieu le 31 mai à 10 h 30. Cet événement comprendra le discours présidentiel de Warren Goodlet (AAC), suivi de la séance de travail annuelle et de la cérémonie de remise des prix pour souligner les réalisations exceptionnelles de nos membres.

Une semaine avant les événements en personne, nous vous invitons à trois séances virtuelles, le 23 mai, sur les changements climatiques ainsi que la productivité et les politiques agricoles.

Je tiens à adresser mes plus sincères remerciements aux membres de la direction et du comité, aux organisateurs/présidents, aux modérateurs, aux juges, aux évaluateurs, aux organisateurs locaux et au personnel dévoué de la SCAE et de l'ACE, dont le temps et la participation ont rendu cette assemblée possible.

Situé au cœur du centre-ville de Montréal, le campus de l'UQAM fournit un cadre dynamique pour cet événement. Nous espérons que vous profiterez également de la richesse de l'offre culturelle et des attraits de la ville lors de votre visite. Merci encore pour votre participation et votre engagement.

Cordialement,

Yu Na Lee, University of Guelph
Présidente de la Société canadienne d'agroéconomie (SCAE)

Session Type In-person Panel Session

Chair or Discussant Sobia Jafry

Canada is at a juncture where domestic as well as international developments have significantly altered political support of key tax policy initiatives. Recent reforms affecting capital gains tax and carbon tax face growing opposition, and there is uncertainty about expected economic impact of changes to these and other tax and transfer policies.

In this session, panelists will be given a maximum of 10-12 minutes to present their views on tax and transfer policy of their choosing with a particular focus on implications for the changing political climate for that policy; for example, one potential topic may be the recent developments regarding the capital gains tax and/or the carbon tax.

The remaining time will be dedicated to discussion and questions from the audience.

An aerial photograph of the Vancouver skyline, showing a dense cluster of skyscrapers and residential buildings along the waterfront. In the background, the city is nestled at the foot of the rugged, snow-capped mountains of the Coast Range. The water in the foreground is dark, with numerous sailboats and yachts anchored in the harbor. The sky is filled with large, white clouds, and the overall scene is bathed in the warm light of late afternoon.
